Application security training and networking in Switzerland

Paris, October 2011 – A key player in the Swiss application security market, solutions vendor Bee Ware is actively supporting the Application Security Forum – Western Switzerland (ASF-WS), to be held over two days starting 26th October in Yverdon-les-Bains, Switzerland, a spa town ideally situated between Geneva and Lausanne.

The event provides IT security professionals and application developers with opportunities for intensive training and informal networking. While the first day will focus on educational activity with a series of theoretical and learn-by-doing sessions, the second will consist in a cycle of conferences by security experts and will be preceded by a financial industry keynote speech. Participating vendors will also showcase solutions and be available to answer the queries of attendees and provide strategic market information.

Conference topics include PCI DSS, Web Services security and multi-factor authentication. Bee Ware CTO Matthieu Estrade, also an OWASP member, can be heard on the subject of « Advanced Persistent Threats » on October 27th, in a presentation entitled: “APT and the importance of HTTP ».

All details including the full schedule and registration can be consulted on the event Web site : <http://event.appsec-forum.ch/>
